Balch Invited To Give Facts In Race Probe

New York, March 6 (AP)—Richard H. Balch, Democratic state chairman, was invited today to appear Monday before the Moreland Commission investigating harness racing if he has "any evidence of facts unknown to the commission."

Bruce Bromley, commission chairman, sent the invitation to Balch, who yesterday had suggested that the commission subpoena Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Bromley said he sent the invitation by telegram in response to Balch's telegram suggesting that Dewey be subpoenaed to testify "as to his knowledge of trotting track conditions in this state."

A spokesman for the governor, commenting yesterday on the Balch proposal, noted it was Dewey who ordered the investigation, which has revealed that a number of GOP political figures own harness track stock.

Bromley announced his reply to Balch as the commission began its sixth day of public hearings. Bromley said:

"The chairman (of the Moreland Act Commission) received notification last night of a telegram from the newspapers of one Richard H. Balch. Later the telegram came along.

Called 'Political Telegram'

He read Balch's telegram into the record and said he sent this message to Balch:

"In reply to your obviously political telegram, this bi-partisan commission has performed its sworn duty to the governor and the public to bring out all the facts without politics or partisanship.

"If you have any evidence of facts unknown to the commission, kindly appear and present them under oath on next Monday, March 8, at 10 a. m., in Room 1346, Criminal Courts Building, 100 Centre street.

Bromley announced also the commission "will make up its mind regarding the split between the track and the state during the day. He said a decision regarding any adjustments of the 'splits'—the division of betting receipts—would be announced so that interested parties could study the commission's opinions over the weekend and appear next week to discuss them.

At yesterday's session, D. Malory Stephens, Putnam county Republican chieftain, told of harness track stock dealings which stand to net him and his family a small fortune.

Police Use Ladder To Reach Woman Ill in Bedroom

Police entered a second story window this morning to reach an 80-year-old woman who had "apparently suffered a stroke" in her locked bedroom.

Miss Lottie Webster, reported to have lived alone in her room at 28 Foxhall avenue, was placed under the care of her private physician. Police said she was apparently paralyzed from the waist down.

Sgt. Grover Hoffay and Officer Francis Fagan, on duty at police headquarters, received a call at 10:05 a. m. from Mrs. V. P. McDermott who owns the building in which Miss Webster stayed. Mrs. McDermott reported that she had not seen Miss Webster since Thursday, that her door was locked and a light on.

Officers Edward J. Leonard and George Dohnken were dispatched, borrowed a ladder from the J & A Roofing Company nearby and, entering a window in Miss Webster's room, opened the door and called for medical aid.

Stevenson To Talk on Congress

Agrees Army Not Guilty of Coddling Reds, but Criticizes President's Foreign Policy

Miami Beach, Fla., March 6 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson agrees with President Eisenhower that the army has not coddled Communists but he reportedly was prepared today to criticize Eisenhower's leadership on domestic and foreign policy issues.

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, was scheduled for a major speech at a party rally here tonight in which he planned to outline his views on the major issues of this year's campaign for control of Congress.

The former Illinois governor told a news conference on his arrival here yesterday that he does not believe the army coddled Communists—as charged by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.)—any more than previous Democratic administrations had knowingly permitted "subversives, traitors or spies" to remain in the government.

Avoids Direct Questions

He avoided direct questions about McCarthy but said he did not believe that the Wisconsin senator's investigation of alleged Communists in government would be a major factor in the congressional campaign.

Stevenson told reporters he was "disappointed" in what he termed the "lack of leadership" Eisenhower has displayed on domestic and foreign issues in the year in which the Republicans have had control of the government. The former Illinois governor said he regarded these problems as vital but reserved specific incidents until his speech tonight.

Although some of the Democrats rallying here for a southeastern party conference avoided any direct criticism of Eisenhower, Stevenson was said by friends to be ready to launch a frontal assault on the President for the first time since he was defeated by Eisenhower in 1952.

Stevenson told a news conference yesterday he planned to discuss Eisenhower's strained relations with McCarthy, which have been pointed up by the latest verbal clash over the Wisconsin senator's assertion that the army had been "coddling Communists."

Stevenson said he was "disturbed" by the "massive retaliation" program of military policy announced by Secretary of State Dulles recently.

Challenge Dulles Policy

Some Democrats, including Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash.), here for this party rally, have challenged this policy on the grounds that it would be ineffective in small wars where use of the atomic weapon is impractical.

In the connection most of the Democrats have agreed with Magnuson that Dulles' policy might involve the United States in a major war where otherwise this country could have Communist aggression with the routine weapons which won World War 2.

Most of the Democrats gathered here for tonight's $100-a-plate dinner agreed that their party has more unity today than it has had since the 1952 defeat.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate Democratic leader, predicted that his party would win control of both Houses in the November election on the basis issue of the condition of the American economy.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said he thinks the Republicans cannot win if economic factors show a downturn in the summer.

Freight Derailed

Lisbon, Conn., March 6 (AP)—Five cars left the rails here today as a local freight of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad emerged from Taft's tunnel.

The accident, occurring about five miles outside of Norwich, tied up the road's New London-Worcester, Mass., line. No one was injured.

Speaker Is Named For Annual Party Of Esopus Legion

Martin B. McKeenly, Americanism chairman for the American Legion's Department of New York, will be the speaker at the annual party of Town of Esopus Post 1298, American Legion, Saturday, March 13, it was announced today by John Schick, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

McKeenly will attend as the personal representative of Paul S. Samuels, Legion department commander.

Other invited guests will include Clarence E. Brown, Ulster county commander; Robert Browning, local newscaster, and Joseph Kelly, Kingston alderman-at-large. The dinner meeting will be held at the Capri on Route 9W in the town of Esopus and will begin at 6:45 p. m.

Attorneys Named For Puerto Ricans

Two Claim Shootings Were in Defense of Their Own Country

Washington, March 6 (AP)—Court-appointed attorneys today assumed responsibility for defense of four Puerto Ricans charged with wounding five members of Congress in a wild shooting demonstration Monday.

U. S. District Judge James W. Morris assigned the attorneys, one a former top official of the District of Columbia government, at a brief hearing yesterday. It was marked by language difficulties despite which two of the defendants got across the idea they considered their acts were in defense of their country.

At the arraignment here yesterday, the judge tried to explain to the defendants the significance of entering pleas and their rights to counsel and a fair trial.

What they said in reply even the judge had a hard time figuring out.

Spring Rally Seen as Market Nears New High for 24 Years

By RADER WINGET

New York, March 6 (AP)—Are we headed for a big spring rally in the stock market?

That's a question being asked in Wall Street as a result of the surprising strength shown by the stock market this week.

The market on average came within a short distance of establishing a new high mark for the past 24 years.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks in its second strongest showing of this year advanced to $116.20. At that point the market was only 10 cents under the 1933-34 high mark of Jan. 5, 1933. That was the best since June 4, 1930—nearly 24 years ago.

The strength shown by the market as measured by the averages was surprising because of the many little things that appeared to detract from the performance. Most of these things were technical, and bulls have a habit of brushing them aside as worthy of little consideration.

It is true that the stock market usually has a reaction after a sustained rise, retracing one-third to two-thirds of its previous advance before it forms a base for a new rise.

Since mid-September of last year the market has been advancing steadily. It hasn't had a reaction worthy of the name during that time. A very pertinent question, therefore, is when will the reaction begin?

Walkout Is Latest Phase in Struggle Between ILA and AFL Unions; Waterfront Considers Present Action as Real Showdown

New York, March 6 (AP)—National Labor Relations Board officials today studied a possible contempt action against wildcat longshore strikers, defying a federal no-walkout order.

The strikers, members of the now-independent International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA), quit work yesterday and quickly brought loading and unloading operations to a halt at about half of the port's 159 piers.

ILA President William V. Bradley and other union officials said they would try to get the strikers back to work.

The walkout is the latest phase in the continuing struggle between the ILA and the AFL—a struggle that has brought a number of brief work stoppages to the port of New York.

Some waterfront observers sensed in this walkout the long-awaited showdown between the ILA and the AFL.

A dispute involving the ILA, on the one hand, and the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters (IBT) and the AFL International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-ILA), on the other, resulted Thursday in the NLRB going to federal court for an injunction against ILA strikes or activities interfering with normal waterfront loading activities.

ILA officials called this discrimination and said the court order should have covered the AFL unions as well. The officials said they had not authorized a protest walkout, but yesterday the ILA dockers refused to work.

"You can blame the NLRB for giving us a dirty deal," an unidentified ILA officer said. "The AFL started this business and the NLRB lowered the boom on us."

Last night the New York Shipping Assn., an employers' group of 170 shipping and stevedoring firms, criticized the NLRB in telegrams sent to President Eisenhower and the governors and other officials of New York and New Jersey.

The association said: "In acting against only one of the three unions, the NLRB action was a straddling half-a-loaf move of such short-sightedness as to preclude the long sought waterfront peace."

Much Lost Time

The telegram said two million man hours of work had been lost since last Oct. 1 "because of unsettled labor conditions."

As the walkout spread yesterday to piers in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Staten Island and New Jersey, some 60 investigators from the NLRB and the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission were reported seeking evidence for a possible contempt action.

NLRB attorneys also conferred with Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock, who signed the injunction Thursday.

Among the ships affected by the walkout yesterday was the Cunard Lines' Queen Elizabeth, whose passengers carried most of their own baggage aboard before she sailed. Mail was left on the pier.

Two big liners—the French Liberté and the U. S. Lines' United States—sailed today.

Just over a week ago things came to a head when AFL dockers picketed a Moore-McCormack pier to protest against the discharge of one of their stewards. ILA men reported for work but had to quit when AFL Teamsters of Local 807 refused to bring their trucks onto the pier through the AFL-ILA picket line.

The ILA retaliated by boycotting AFL trucks on other piers; and the Teamsters, in turn, set up picket lines of their own at many piers. Then came the injunction, under the Taft-Hartley law, on Thursday. The Teamsters promptly called off their pickets.

President Watches March

President Eisenhower has picked up this month to indicate whether business will pick up or the government may have to step in to help.

President Watches March

President Eisenhower has picked up this month to indicate whether business will pick up or the government may have to step in to help.

Current strength, however, has led many to believe that the market is capable of swinging into a spring rally before it faces the necessity of considering a wide readjustment of values.

There is still the stumbling block of March 15. If enough people find it necessary to sell stocks for cash to meet income tax payments this coming week, that might provide an excuse for the market to start backing down.

March 15 is certainly a psychological barrier.

But continued strength could work right into a spring rally without a halt, some brokers believe.

Not much comfort can be drawn for the spring rally theory by looking back on a year ago. You will recall that the Eisenhower election boom carried the market to a peak early in January of last year. There was a mild reaction, and in the following recovery the market failed to get back up to a new high. It tried again, and on March 17 it failed.

Kane Gives Praise to Army Boss

Says Secretary Does Not Get Full Backing of Higher-Ups in Tiff With McCarthy

Washington, March 6 (AP)—One of Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens' chief aides has resigned, deploring what he termed a lack of "full fighting support" from higher up for Stevens in his troubles with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

John F. Kane, a special assistant under Stevens and before that under former Army Secretary Frank Pace, announced his resignation from his $10,000 a year job yesterday in a letter congratulating Stevens on "the gallant battle you are trying to put up for the army."

Kane has been in the hospital this week receiving treatment for high blood pressure.

Kane, reached by phone, did not say which of Stevens' superiors he felt hadn't rallied to the secretary's side in the dispute over McCarthy's handling of an army general questioned in secret session. The Wisconsin senator has been criticizing the army for the way it has dealt with alleged Communists in its ranks.

But the only officials who rank above Stevens are Deputy Secretary of Defense Roger M. Kyes, then Defense Secretary Wilson and finally, President Eisenhower. Kane did say he excluded "everybody in the army" from his lack of support charge.

The Chicago Tribune said last night that Stevens himself was "reliably reported" to have resigned.

Denials on Quitting

But associates and Mrs. Stevens said early today the secretary had "absolutely" and "definitely" not resigned.

Stevens, who was away from Washington, could not be reached for comment.

Administration officials and McCarthy have been embroiled in controversy since Stevens some time ago asserted he would not stand by and allow army witnesses to be browbeaten by congressional committees or by anybody else.

This happened after Stevens heard about the way McCarthy questioned Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zacker, commandant at Camp Kilmer, N. J., on the discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, a dental officer whom McCarthy called a "Fifth Amendment Communist."

Stevens ordered Zwickler and another general to ignore a McCarthy subpoena, but later rescinded this order after a "peace conference" with McCarthy and Republican members of McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Regarded as Retreat

The agreement was generally regarded as a Stevens retreat—an interpretation the secretary challenged. Stevens' after a round of Pentagon and White House conferences—issued a new statement reemphasizing his determination never to permit abuse of people under him. McCarthy has steadfastly refused to concede he ever abused any witness.

President Eisenhower at mid-week told a news conference he believes in "fair play" by congressional investigators. He didn't mention McCarthy by name, but coupled his remarks with praise for General Zwickler.

The next day, secretary of Defense Wilson dismissed as "tommyrot" charges that the army has (Continued on Page 5, Col. 8)

Fort Wayne Car Dealer Tells Of Holdups Netting $138,000

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 6 (AP)—"Lunch-hour" bank bandit who couldn't be caught in his swift robberies walked into a police trap yesterday because his alleged getaway driver drank and spent his way into trouble.

Police Chief Alfred Fige said Bernard E. La Clair, 31-year-old former Fort Wayne garage operator, admitted six holdups with loot totaling $138,000 and probably committed others that would run the total to more than $200,000.

La Clair was held without charge and without bond pending further investigation. Chief Fige said he listed these robberies: June 6, Hamlet, Ind., $7,500; June 30, East Side branch of the old National Bank, Evansville, Ind., $24,000; July, New Britain, Conn., $24,000; July 25, Bourbon, Ind., First State Bank, $9,500; Dec. 8, the same Evansville bank, $11,000; January, Springfield, Mass., State Bank, $62,000. Fige said George Miller, 28, Fort Wayne, sentenced to 10 days in jail yesterday for drunken driving, was believed to have driven for La Clair.

La Clair was arrested after Miller was seized by police in suburban Wayneville for intoxication. In New Britain, Conn., authorities were investigating the possibility La Clair was the man who robbed a branch bank of the New Britain National Bank in Berlin of some $25,000 and for which Laurence D. Howley, 35, of Middletown, now is serving a 10-year prison sentence.

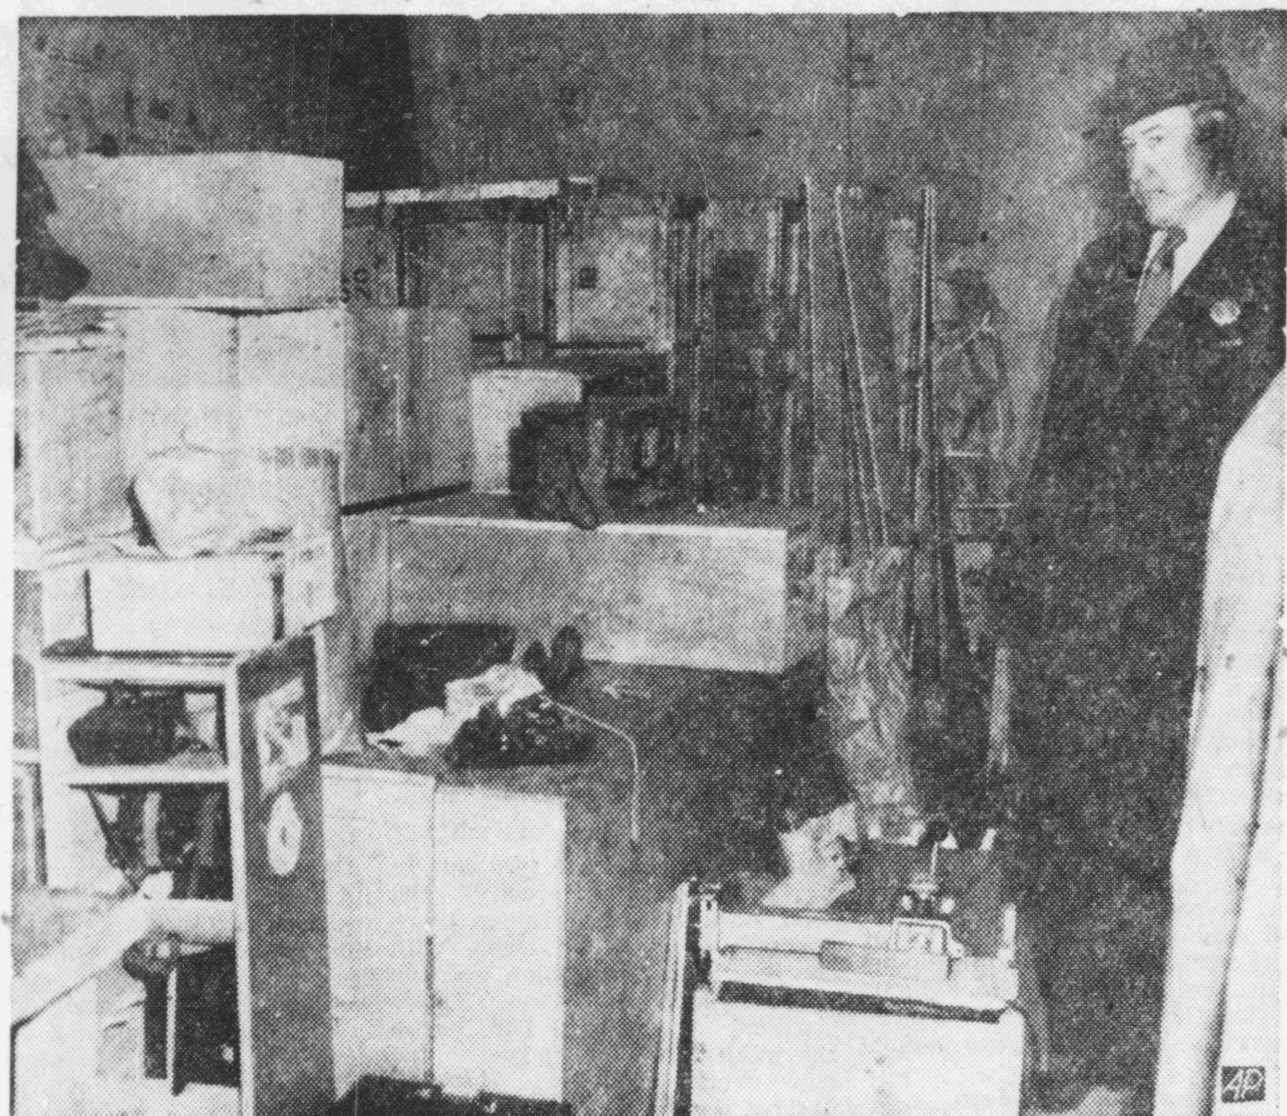

Authorities thought there might be a connection between La Clair's reputed admission of robbing a New Britain bank and the (Continued on Page 9, Col. 5)

Police entered a second story window this morning to reach an 80-year-old woman who had "apparently suffered a stroke" in her locked bedroom.

Miss Lottie Webster, reported to have lived alone in her room at 28 Foxhall avenue, was placed under the care of her private physician. Police said she was apparently paralyzed from the waist down.

Sgt. Grover Hoffay and Officer Francis Fagan, on duty at police headquarters, received a call at 10:05 a. m. from Mrs. V. P. McDermott who owns the building in which Miss Webster stayed. ## Two Alleged Batista Enemies Held by Police

New York, March 6 (AP)—Police seized an arsenal in a deserted, looking Manhattan store yesterday and placed two Cubans, alleged opponents of the Batista regime, under arrest.

Detectives swooped into the store, on West 99th street, yesterday and came up with crates of mortar shells, anti-tank guns, Garand rifles, grenades and a big supply of shells.

Later Mario Cruz, and Roberto Oscar Acevedo, 36, were taken into custody. They were booked early today on charges of violating the weapons law.

Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams described them as members of a Cuban organization opposed to the regime of Fulgenio Batista, President of Cuba.

Eight Questioned

Eight other persons were questioned by police and released. Among these, Adams said were six men and a woman known as members of anti-Batista organizations.

The arsenal is the second discovered in the metropolitan area since Carlos Prio Socarras was ousted as president of Cuba by Batista in March, 1952.

Adams and other police officials gave details on the latest arms seizure.

Cruz, a bus boy ordered by immigration officials to leave the United States by April 22, and Acevedo, a garment cutter resident here since 1945, rented the store for $75 a month last November. They said it was to be used to manufacture crates. Recently trucks started unloading heavy cases outside the store, the lone window of which had been painted black.

Tipped Police

The Cubans contacted an employee of a stevedoring firm several days ago with a view toward possible shipment out of the country. The stevedoring employee tipped police.

Yesterday about a dozen detectives raided the store while some 70 others fanned out over the neighborhood and covered the raiding party from nearby rooftops and windows.

A check showed the arms were American made and packed pro-

Kane, reached by phone, did not say which of Stevens' superiors he felt hadn't rallied to the secretary's side in the dispute over McCarthy's handling of an army general questioned in secret session. The Wisconsin senator has been criticizing the army for the way it has dealt with alleged Communists in its ranks.

But the only officials who rank above Stevens are Deputy Secretary of Defense Roger M. Kyes, then Defense Secretary Wilson and finally, President Eisenhower. Kane did say he excluded "everybody in the army" from his lack of support charge.

The Chicago Tribune said last night that Stevens himself was "reliably reported" to have resigned.

Denials on Quitting

But associates and Mrs. Stevens said early today the secretary had "absolutely" and "definitely" not resigned.

Stevens, who was away from Washington, could not be reached for comment.

Administration officials and McCarthy have been embroiled in controversy since Stevens some time ago asserted he would not stand by and allow army witnesses to be browbeaten by Congressional committees or by anybody else.

This happened about the way McCarthy questioned Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, commandant at Camp Kilmer, N. J., on the discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, a desert officer whom McCarthy called a "Fifth Amendment Communist."

Stevens ordered Zwicker and another general to ignore a McCarthy subpoena, but later rescinded this order after a "peace conference" with McCarthy and Republican members of McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Regarded as Retreat

The agreement was generally regarded as a Stevens retreat—an interpretation the secretary challenged. Stevens—after a round of Pentagon and White House conferences—issued a new statement reemphasizing his determination never to permit abuse of people under him. McCarthy has steadfastly refused to concede he ever abused any witness.

President Eisenhower at mid-week told a news conference he believes in "fair play" by congressional investigators. He didn't mention McCarthy by name, but coupled his remarks with praise for General Zwicker.

The next day, secretary of Defense Wilson dismissed as "tommyrot" charges that the army has (Continued on Page 5, Col. 8)

Fort Wayne Car Dealer Tells Of Holdups Netting $138,000

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 6 (AP)—"Lunch-hour" bank bandit who couldn't be caught in his swift robberies walked into a police trap yesterday because his alleged getaway driver drank and spent his way into trouble.

Police Chief Alfred Figel said Bernard E. La Clair, 31-year-old former Fort Wayne garage operator, admitted six holdups with loot totaling $138,000 and probably committed others that would run the total to more than $200,000.

La Clair was held without charge and without bond pending further investigation. Chief Figel said he listed these robberies:

June 30, Hamlet, Ind., $7,500; June 30, East Side branch of the old National Bank, Evansville, Ind., $24,000; July, New Britain, Conn., $24,000; July 25, Bourbon, Ind., First State Bank, $9,500; Dec. 8, the same Evansville bank, $11,000; January, Springfield, Mass., State Bank, $62,000.

Figel said George Miller, 28, Fort Wayne, sentenced to 10 days in jail yesterday for drunken driving, was believed to have driven for La Clair.

La Clair was arrested after Miller was seized by police in suburban Waynedale for intoxication. In New Britain, Conn., authorities were investigating the possibility La Clair was the man who robbed a branch bank of the New Britain National Bank in Berlin of some $25,000 and for which Laurence D. Howley, 35, of Middletown, now is serving a 10-year prison sentence.

Authorities thought there might be a connection between La Clair's reputed admission of robbing a New Britain bank and the (Continued on Page 9, Col. 5)

Religious Radio Programs

According to an announcement by the Franciscan Friars of the Atonement, producers of the Ave Maria Hour, Sister Irene had an uncanny knack for finding abandoned babies. She and Sister Teresa discovered the first one in a refuse truck. Afterwards, the good Lord arranged things more normally. For Sister Irene, with her Superior's permission and the encouragement of New York's Cardinal Archbishop, had begun the institution now known as the New York Foundling Hospital. Today, the New York Foundling Home stands as a fitting memorial to all who so generously gave of themselves that God's abandoned babies might live to give Him glory. The Ave Maria Hour will broadcast this story, through the cooperation of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, Sunday at 8:30 a. m. over WKNY. Goldwyn reportedly bid a million dollars plus 10 per cent of the picture's gross over 10 millions. Filming of the musical, based on a Damon Runyon story, is not expected to start for almost two years.

Central Kingston Work in Progress

Central Kingston is taking on a brighter, newer, appearance. Elimination of the old Broadway crossing and construction of the magnificent new underpass, demolition of many dilapidated buildings in the section, new construction and renovations, etc., have greatly improved the area. The French Dye Works, Inc., 524 Broadway, is an example of work in progress (photo) where construction of a new building with space for three stores is ready to commence. (Freeman photo)

Fantasy and Fact Mingle Sharply in Central Section

(Rumors are abroad in the central Kingston area—some fantastic, some that turn out to be real. In the third article of the series on central Kingston some of the rumors and some of the changes and developments are traced.)

BY JOHN A. CRAWFORD, JR.

Characteristic of the new ebullience are the rumors abroad in the central Kingston area.

One industrial leader in that section remarked facetiously that a "Grand Hotel should be built in the area to house all the rumors flying around."

Some of the reports are fantastic. An example—"Electrol" is selling out to Republic Aviation!" Only a few days ago more than 200 employees of Barclay Knitting Mills, Inc., and Kingston Knitting Mills, Inc., received assurances that neither of the sister firms is contemplating leaving Kingston.

Rumors 'Scotched'

Michael Pauker, president of both firms, came to Kingston from New York, where he resides, expressly for the purpose of "scotching rumors" circulating in the city to the effect that one or both of the firms intended moving from the city.

A good percentage of these rumors turn out to be the McCoy; however, an example is the former Ruzzo Bowlatorium now being renovated for use by an IBM vanguard of perhaps 75 to 100 persons.

Negotiations are under way for purchase of the former Ballantine building on Field Court by the Ulster Provisioners Co-operative Association, Inc., now located on East Strand. Contracts may be signed before this article is inked on the presses.

It is common knowledge that food stores are negotiating for property in the central area. One rumor even has it that a food store is negotiating for the purchase of the municipal auditorium, which was built at a cost approaching a quarter million dollars.

The former Palen building on Broadway next to the YMCA has also been studied as a possible site for a retail food store, it is reported. The first floor of the building is now unoccupied, the second floor in use by a local garment industry.

Supermarket Trend

A supermarket trend is visible throughout the city—in central Kingston in particular. The Empire Market was built in the Academy Green area by the Schaffer Stores Co., Inc., of the Empire chain. The Governor Clinton Market, 773 Broadway, was also completed a couple of years ago. The A & P store in the Millard Building, 110-116 Prince street, is reported to be investigating potential sites.

Sprague Electric located in the central Kingston area several years ago, taking over the plant at Foxhall avenue and Cornell street formerly occupied by the U. S. Lace Curtains Mills.

The sharpest alteration in the face of the central area is in the Academy Green section where a veritable business center has mushroomed in recent months.

Growth Is Traced

In this development is the new half million dollar Empire Market, Rafalowsky's (men's furnishings), the store space owned by Herman G. Rafalowsky and formerly occupied by Regina's (women's clothing), Adler's (children's and infants' clothing), the Metropolitan Insurance Company above the Empire Market, the new Pride dry cleaning establishment, the Kingston Buying Service, Jay's Shoe Store, Park Diner and a spacious parking lot.

The Western Auto Associate Store at 739 Broadway, handling automobile accessories, radios, television sets, etc., and the Bev Anderson Chevrolet Co., Inc., 731 Broadway, built two years ago, are both examples of new construction in the central section.

Zwick and Schwartz, wholesale fruit and produce, 36 O'Neil street, with its considerable fleet of trucks, remodelled the old Hummer Feed and Grain building, occupying their new quarters in 1952.

Charles Pavlidis, who operates the Broadway Oyster and Chop House, 19 Broadway, is building a second restaurant at Downs and Broadway to be opened this spring.

Pontiac Motor Cars, 707 Broadway, gave its face a lifting and future a handsome new showroom. The French Dye Works, Inc., 524 Broadway, is reported ready to commence construction of a new building with space for three stores.

Three Diners Built

In addition to the Park Diner at Academy Green, two other diners have been built in the last couple of years—the State Diner between St. James street and Albany avenue, and the Colonial Diner, 713 Broadway.

Saccoman's Jewelers, 580 Broadway, and Dittmar's Shoe Store, 578 Broadway, have both been renovated and received dressy new fronts. It is also reported that a new restaurant may be built at the corner of Field Court and Broadway in the near future and that the Perry's Taxi, Inc., 604 Broadway, is planning to put up some garages in a lot back of the proposed restaurant.

There are two frame houses on Broadway listed for sale "to be removed or demolished." It is rumored that a service station will be built on the site.

The Englander building, 626-30 Broadway, which houses the Mid-Way Gift and Party Shop, Otto's Confectionery, and the branch office of the Home Seekers Savings and Loan Association, was renovated more recently, as were William O'Reilly, Inc., 611 Broadway; Franklin Pharmacy, 759 Broadway; Tony's Drug Co., Inc., 585 Broadway, among others. The Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, 607 Broadway, is new construction.

This is part of the picture in the rapidly changing central section of the city. (Monday: Owners show reluctance to part with properties.)

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Use Slam Double Against Tough Foe

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The slam double is your best weapon against an over-ambitious opponent. It isn't necessary to double just to get 50 or 100 points extra for a one-trick set; you will be happy to defeat the enemy even undoubled, and thus get a profit when the opponents have most of the high cards. The purpose of the double is to induce your partner to make the right opening lead.

Your double asks your partner for an unusual opening lead. This is illustrated by today's hand, taken from my brand-new book, "What's New in Bridge."

South's jump to slam is a bit of a stab, but North has also overbid slightly. North has a minimum raise to three spades and should not make the cue bid of four hearts in response to four clubs.

If East fails to double, West will almost surely open the unbid suit, diamonds, and there is then no chance at all to defeat the slam. (South can win the second trick (East takes the first with the ace of diamonds), draws trumps, and discards two of dummy's clubs on good diamonds. When East doubles, West has no trouble in picking the correct opening lead. The unbid suit, diamonds, is ruled out. East must want either a heart or a club lead. If East wanted a heart lead, he would have doubled the cue bid of four hearts. Since he failed to do so, his slam double must ask for a club lead.

The club lead defeats the slam easily enough. East sets up a club trick and gets in with the ace of diamonds in time to cash his club.

This double works as the cards lie. It would not work if North's hearts were ace-king-queen instead of ace-king-eight. Even against a club lead, South could draw trumps and discard his high heart.

East must take the risk that the slam may be unbeatable in order to get the only opening lead that has any chance at all to produce a good result.

Saugerties Has Group to Study Centralization

A standing committee of village and rural representatives was named at a meeting Thursday night to carry on further investigation and action on a proposal for the centralization of Saugerties area school districts.

Representatives from Saugerties School District No. 12 (village) named to the committee were Milton Armstrong, Mrs. Henry Schroeder, Ernest E. Schirmer, Mrs. Albert Perks, Mrs. William Jacobs, Benjamin Sanford, and Richard Overbagh.

Rural district representatives are Mrs. LeRoy Donaldson, John Lowther, Fred Sander, Louis Sacks, James Pfeiffer, Hilbert Wheelright, Mrs. Victor Wood, Mrs. Jack Jewett, Mrs. Warren Myer, Mrs. William Woestendiek, Durwood Swart and Mrs. Joseph Crotty.

Thursday's meeting was called by the Saugerties Board of Education after it adopted a citizen's committee report Monday night on the "one feasible answer" to the problem faced by Saugerties schools in view of expected expansion in the area.

Mobilgas Economy Run on April 5

The 1954 Mobilgas Economy Run, a precise road test of America's automobiles, will begin at Los Angeles April 5th for a three-day run to Sun Valley, Idaho. R. H. Hotchkiss, district manager of Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., Inc., announced today.

Conducted under the supervision of the American Automobile Association, the contest is designed to show the average motorist the economy potential of his own automobile.

"The power, speed and reliability of modern cars has been proved through the years, Hotchkiss said. "When it comes to economical driving, the public still has much to learn. The average American motor car delivers about 15 miles per gallon—well under the par which the automotive industry believes can be reached by better driving practices."

"Four postwar runs have given the motorist a mileage target to shoot at," he continued. "While a few attain this par, just as few players shoot par golf, its value as a goal for the individual car owner is indisputable. Not only have the runs shown that better mileage is possible, but they have put it within the grasp of all of us—if we use steady and careful driving practices and quality motor fuels."

"The automotive industry estimates," Hotchkiss added, "that 1,800,000,000 gallons of gasoline can be saved annually if the nation's drivers will increase their fuel mileage just one mile per gallon."

Cars will be divided into the price classifications generally used by the public—low, low-medium, medium and high. A special class for lightweight vehicles will also be opened to eligible entrants. Because of the prevalence of optional transmissions, cars in the first three classes will be divided among standard and overdrive transmission-equipped vehicles, and those with automatic transmissions. In the high price group all entrants are equipped with automatic transmissions. There will be winners in each of the price classes.

Grand prize of all will be the sweepstakes award, which goes to the car regardless of classification that attains the highest ton-miles per gallon.

A Ford Six, entered by Al Steubing of Hollywood, and driven by Les Viland, was the sweepstakes winner with a 27 miles per gallon average, and a ton miles per gallon mark of 56.7. Average miles per gallon of all 25 entrants in the event was 22.2.

Taylor to Adjudge Action's Validity

Whether the complaint served in a negligence action brought in Supreme Court by Harvey L. Every against the County of Ulster is a valid one, will be determined by Justice Donald S. Taylor. Every alleges he was injured because of a faulty county highway and he brought an action in Supreme Court to recover damages.

John A. Bonomi appears for the plaintiff and alleges the complaint is good although it was served on the county attorney instead of the party or parties which the law says must be served, either the chairman or clerk of the board of supervisors, county treasurer or county clerk and the county attorney. Bonomi told Justice Taylor he had not served the parties named in the law and had served the county attorney because he had failed to take notice of recent law which provided that other county officials must be served instead of the county attorney under a prior statute. Other facts he alleged must also be considered.

County Attorney Arthur A. Davis, Jr., moved to set aside the notice of claim on the grounds the proper parties had not been served. The case is noted on the March trial term of Supreme Court. Every allegedly was injured in July 1950. Davis asked the notice to be set aside and Bonomi argued that the county has discretionary power to direct its service be held good and the case legally is settled.

Justice Taylor reserved decision and papers were submitted.

'THE ALOHA'

'The Aloha' Is Unusually Charming

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Three
Closets ..... Six
Cubage: ..... 32,500 ft.

Dimensions ..... 57' x 28'
The most distinguishing feature of "The Aloha" is the full length picture window in the front wall of the living room. This window adds much decorative appeal to both the exterior and interior of the modern, one-story house offered today by the Home of the Week Plan Service.

Low slung architectural lines seem to tie this home to the ground. The sloping roof contributes to the overall impression that this charming house hugs the ground and thus it adds to the comfortably homey charm to which "The Aloha" owes so much of its appeal.

Measuring 57'x28', "The Aloha" has a cubage of 32,500 feet. At least an 80 foot lot would be required to build this house. Simple uncluttered landscaping will bring out the best architectural features of "The Aloha."

Two regular bedrooms plus a room that can be used as a den, bedroom or guest room provide the family that lives in this cozy home with plenty of sleeping space. These three rooms are located in the right wing of the house; the bathroom is conveniently near to these rooms. Good lighting and ventilation, and generous closet storage space are provided in each of the sleeping rooms, including the optional one. Either of the regular bedrooms can be used as the master bedroom.

The extra closet space in "The Aloha" is certain to please any housewife. You can give added practical value to the double closets located across the hall from the linen closet. You can, them lined with cedar. You can, of course, have the double closet area made into one large closet if this arrangement will better suit your needs.

While there is no breakfast nook in "The Aloha" the dining room adjoins the kitchen. Therefore, the housewife will easily be able to serve all the family's meals in this pleasant room. The kitchen itself is strictly a work center with appliances, and working counters lining both front and back walls of the room. You can keep all of your cleaning equipment in the spacious broom closet.

Since the laundry is located on the ground floor of "The Aloha" the only required installation in the basement will be the heating equipment. This should be placed under the living room.

Blueprints Available
Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Modernize Attic For More Space

To take full advantage of available living space many families are modernizing their attics for occupancy, says Frank Sohn, architectural consultant for a large glass company.

He offers eight suggestions on how to modernize an attic economically. They call for the use of large windows to increase daylighting as well as ventilation; installation of a handrail on attic stairways for safety; adequate insulation; built-in furniture to save space; installation of enough electric outlets for lamps, radios and fans; use of pattern glass partition rather than opaque walls; installation of a lavatory, and in larger attics the addition of dormer windows to afford cross ventilation.

Color Benefits House Exterior

The growing trend to exterior decoration emphasizes the individuality color accents can give to houses in the same architectural design, such as those in a development. It also points up that colorful exteriors can be effective on both modern and traditional architecture.

Although seven out of 10 houses are white today, ample opportunity for the use of bold color accents exists. Doors, for instance, can be painted a bright color to echo shutter treatment or a bay window can be featured by painting it a color that contrasts with the rest of the house. Under-porch-sidewall areas are especially suitable for interesting color accents.

Proper use of color on side-walls, trim and shutters can help to conceal objectional structural elements by "painting them out."

The Western Auto Associate Store at 739 Broadway, handling automobile accessories, radios, television sets, etc., and the Bev Anderson Chevrolet Co., Inc., 731 Broadway, built two years ago, are both examples of new construction in the central section.

Zwick and Schwartz, wholesale fruit and produce, 36 O'Neil street, with its considerable fleet of trucks, remodelled the old Hummer Feed and Grain building, occupying their new quarters in 1952.

Charles Pavlidas, who operates the Broadway Oyster and Chop House, 19 Broadway, is building a second restaurant at Downs and Broadway to be opened this spring.

Pontiac Motor Cars, 707 Broadway, gave its face a lifting and built a handsome new showroom. The French Dye Works, Inc., 524 Broadway, is reported ready to commence construction of a new building with space for three stores.

Three Diners Built
In addition to the Park Diner at Academy Green, two other diners have been built in the last couple of years—the State Diner between St. James street and Albany avenue and the Colonial Diner, 713 Broadway.

Sacoman's Jewelers, 580 Broadway, and Dittmar's Shoe Store, 578 Broadway, have both been renovated and received dressy new fronts. It is also reported that a new restaurant may be built at the corner of Field Court and Broadway in the near future, and that Perry's Taxi, Inc., 604 Broadway, is planning to put up some garages in a lot back of the proposed restaurant.

There are two frame houses on Broadway listed for sale "to be removed or demolished." It is rumored that a service station will be built on the site.

The Englander building, 626-30 Broadway, which houses the Mid-Way Gift and Party Shop, Otto's Confectionery, and the branch office of the Home Seekers Savings and Loan Association, was renovated more recently, as were William O'Reilly, Inc., 611 Broadway; Franklin Pharmacy, 759 Broadway; Tony's Pizzeria, 759 Broadway; Trudi Drug Co., Inc., 585 Broadway, among others. The Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, 607 Broadway, is new construction.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Use Slam Double Against Tough Foe

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The slam double is your best weapon against an over-ambitious opponent. It isn't necessary to double just to get 50 or 100 points extra for a one-trick set; you will be happy to defeat the enemy even undoubled, and thus get a profit when the opponents have most of the high cards. The purpose of the double is to induce your partner to make the right opening lead.

Your double asks your partner for an unusual opening lead. This is illustrated by today's hand, taken from my brand-new book, "What's New in Bridge."

South's jump to slam is a bit of a stab, but North has also overbid slightly. North has a minimum raise to three spades and should not make the cue bid of four hearts in response to four clubs.

If East fails to double, West will almost surely open the unbid suit, diamonds, and there is then no chance at all to defeat the slam. South can win the second trick (East takes the first with the ace of diamonds), draw trumps, and discards two of diamonds.

my's clubs on good diamonds. When East doubles, West has no trouble in picking the correct opening lead. The unbid suit, diamonds, is ruled out. East must want either a heart or a club lead. If East wanted a heart lead, he would have doubled the cue bid of four hearts. Since he failed to do so, his slam double must ask for a club lead.

The club lead defeats the slam easily enough. East sets up a club trick and gets in with the ace of diamonds in time to cash his club.

This double works as the cards lie. It would not work if North's hearts were ace-king-queen instead of ace-king-eight. Even against a club lead, South could draw trumps and discard his losing club on dummy's third high heart.

East must take the risk that the slam may be unbeatable in order to get the only opening lead that has any chance at all to produce a good result.

Mobilgas Economy Run on April 5

The 1954 Mobilgas Economy Run, a precise road test of America's automobiles, will begin at Los Angeles April 5th for a three-day run to Sun Valley, Idaho. R. H. Hotchkiss, district manager of Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., Inc., announced today.

Conducted under the supervision of the American Automobile Association, the contest is designed to show the average motorist the economy potential of his own automobile.

"The power, speed and reliability of modern cars has been proved through the years," Hotchkiss said. "When it comes to economical driving, the public still has much to learn. The average American motor car delivers about 15 miles per gallon—well under the par which the automotive industry believes can be reached by better driving practices."

"Four postwar runs have given the motorist a mileage target to shoot at," he continued. "While a few attain this par, just as few players shoot par golf, its value as a goal for the individual car owner is indisputable. Not only have the runs shown that better mileage is possible, but they have put it within the grasp of all of us—if we use steady and careful driving practices and quality motor fuels."

"The automotive industry estimates," Hotchkiss added, "that 1,800,000,000 gallons of gasoline can be saved annually if the nation's drivers will increase their fuel mileage just one mile per gallon."

Cars will be divided into the price classifications generally used by the public—low, low-medium, upper-medium and high. A special class for lightweight vehicles will also be opened to eligible entrants. Because of the prevalence of optional transmissions, cars in the first three classes will be divided among standard and overdrive transmission-equipped vehicles, and those with automatic transmissions. In the high priced group all entrants are equipped with automatic transmissions. There will be winners in each of the price classes.

Grand prize of all will be the sweepstakes award, which goes to the car regardless of classification that attains the highest ton-miles per gallon.

A Ford Six, entered by Al Steubing of Hollywood, and driven by Les Viles, was the 1953 sweepstakes winner with a 27 miles per gallon average, and a ton miles per gallon mark of 56.7. Average miles per gallon of all 25 entrants in the event was 22.2.

Taylor to Adjudge Action's Validity

Whether the complaint served in a negligence action brought in Supreme Court by Harvey L. Every against the County of Ulster is a valid one, will be determined by Justice Donald S. Taylor. Every alleges he was injured because of a faulty county highway and has brought an action in Supreme Court to recover damages.

John A. Bonomi appears for the plaintiff and alleges the complaint is good although it was served on the county attorney instead of the party or parties which the law says must be served, either the chairman or clerk of the board of supervisors, county treasurer or county clerk and the county attorney. Bonomi told Justice Taylor he had served the parties named in the law and had served the county attorney because he had failed to take notice of recent law which provided that other county officials must be served instead of the county attorney under a prior statute. Other facts he alleged must also be considered.

County Attorney Arthur A. Davis, Jr., moved to set aside the notice of claim on the grounds the proper parties had not been served. The case is noted on the March trial term of Supreme Court. Every allegedly was injured in July 1950. Davis asked the notice to be set aside and Bonomi argued that the court has discretionary power to direct the service be good and the case legally at issue.

Justice Taylor reserved decision and papers were submitted.

'THE ALOHA'

'The Aloha' Is Unusually Charming

Rooms . . . . . Six
Bedrooms . . . . . Three
Bathrooms . . . . . One
Closets . . . . . Six
Cubage: . . . . . 32,500 ft.

Dimensions . . . . . 37' x 28'
The most distinguishing feature of "The Aloha" is the full length picture window in the front wall of the living room. This window adds much decorative appeal to both the exterior and interior of the modern, one-story house of offered today by the Home of the Week Plan Service.

Low slung architectural lines seem to tie this home to the ground. The sloping roof contributes to the overall impression that this charming house hugs the ground and thus it adds to the comfortably homey charm to which "The Aloha" owes so much of its appeal.

Measuring 37'x28', "The Aloha" has a cubage of 32,500 feet. At least an 80 foot lot would be required to build this house. Simple uncluttered landscaping will bring out the best architectural features of "The Aloha."

Two regular bedrooms plus a room that can be used as a den, bedroom or guest room provide the family that lives in this cozy home with plenty of sleeping space. These three rooms are located in the right wing of the house; the bathroom is conveniently near to these rooms.

Good lighting and ventilation, and generous closet storage space are provided in each of the sleeping rooms, including the optional one. Either of the regular bedrooms can be used as the master bedroom.

The extra closet space in "The Aloha" is certain to please any housewife. You can give added practical value to the double closets, located across the hall from the linen closet, by having them lined with cedar. You can, of course, have the double closet area made into one large closet if this arrangement will better suit your needs.

While there is no breakfast nook in "The Aloha" the dining room adjoins the kitchen. Therefore, the housewife will easily be able to serve all the family's meals in this pleasant room. The kitchen itself is strictly a work center with appliances, and working counters lining both front and back walls of the room. You can keep all of your cleaning equipment in the spacious broom closet.

Since the laundry is located on the ground floor of "The Aloha" the only required installation in the basement will be the heating equipment. This should be placed under the living room.

Blueprints Available
Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Summer Cottage Checkup Time

It's summer cottage checkup time again.

Here are some suggestions for immediate repairs and remodeling, so that the country home will be ready for the season.

1. Check plumbing lines to be sure that no rust areas need either flushing or replacement. Prevention now will prevent breakdowns later.

2. The bathroom and kitchen will be used extensively by the entire family and guests. Now is the ideal time to make them both more comfortable and efficient by installing easy-to-clean and durable surfaces.

3. Look at the roof. Winter storms may have damaged shingles or other roofing material. Repairs to harmed sections now is insurance against leakage when the vacation season is on.

4. Summer is an outdoor season, so be certain that the porch not only is comfortably airy and insectproof with screening in good repair, but also floored with easy-to-wash material such as clay tile which requires only a periodic hosing down, not scrubbing and repeated painting.

5. The whole family can pitch in on weekends to give the exterior walls their seasonal coat of paint. Be sure to select a product which will not fade from exposure to the sun or peel from heat or other weather conditions.

6. Visitation from animals, friendly or otherwise, can be prevented by building barriers where rodents or other creatures could burrow their way under the building. This measure is a safeguard against weakening of structural supports.

Feed the Bacteria
If you use sawdust, shavings or other similar materials for mulching, be sure to use an extra amount of fertilizer at each application to feed the bacteria at work breaking down this material.

Removing Decals
A good method of removing decals is to cover them with a wet piece of blotting paper for a few hours. After that the decal can be scraped off without damaging the finish underneath.

Color Benefits House Exterior

The growing trend to exterior decoration emphasizes the individuality color accents can give to houses in the same architectural design, such as those in a development. It also points up that colorful exteriors can be effective on both modern and traditional architecture.

Although seven out of 10 houses are white today, ample opportunity for the use of bold color accents exists. Doors, for instance, can be painted a bright color to echo shutter treatment or a bay window can be featured by painting it a color that contrasts with the rest of the house. Under-porch-sidewall areas are especially suitable for interesting color accents.

Proper use of color on side-walls, trim and shutters can help to conceal objectional structural elements by "painting them out."

To Banish 'Bloom'
The "blooming" of varnish which gives it a cloudy, or gray, effect is often caused by moisture. Before re-varnishing, rub the surface with a rag moistened with alcohol. Be sure to undertake your project on a warm, dry day.

SHOOTING IN CONGRESS

It was a long moment, on the House floor, before many congressmen realized that the Puerto Rican bullets were real and that it "could happen here."

The lawmakers were stunned because up to now this country's governing processes have always been free of acts of violence. Our political dialogue may grow harsh and bitter, but somehow it has managed to stop short of the catcall, a derisive taunt and the fist fight which often mars legislative debate in such parliaments as Italy's.

The action of a handful of Puerto Rican fanatics can do nothing to advance the cause in which the bullets were allegedly fired—independence. But perhaps this astonishing event can serve a purpose for us.

It can remind us that our public figures and our democratic processes enjoy no comfortable immunity from the violence that frequently afflicts other nations. It can remind us to keep our national argument temperate, lest a pressing toward rigid extremes produce violence on issues far greater than Puerto Rico's future.

By this we do not mean to belittle the cause of Puerto Rican independence. But, in truth, that was not at stake in the shocking incident in the House. President Eisenhower has offered the island its independence, yet the Puerto Rican legislature has turned it down.

More than four fifths of the island's people prefer to continue, at least for a while, Puerto Rico's present status as a self-governing commonwealth under U. S. tutelage. As leading islanders make clear, their present need is not more freedom but more jobs to lift them to improved economic status.

There seems to be evidence that the fanatical attack on Congress was Communist-inspired, with the aim of embarrassing American diplomats meeting in Latin American conference at Caracas.

But the real story of U. S. generosity toward Puerto Rico's political and economic goals is too well known for such a transparent, though potentially tragic tactic to fool anyone.

BETTER TRAFFIC SIGNS

Motorists in Logan, Utah, find no signs reading "stop" when they enter a main thoroughfare from a side street. Instead the signs say "Yield the Right of Way." This permits them to keep going at the intersection if there is no traffic to impede. The reports, according to the American Municipal Association, are that the new signs are followed better than the old, and there have been but two accidents.

No standard wording has ever been found for traffic signs. Local usage varies too much to make this look possible to individual towns. However, the tendency to uniformity is growing. Boston now tells the driver to "Stop" or "Go." Once, the story is, that in accordance with Boston's reputation for learning, the signs read "Cease" and "Proceed."

Even in the matter of traffic signs we do make progress.

Drive carefully in bad weather and you will have a better chance of being around until it changes for the better.

A LOOK AT RUSSIA

At times Americans are prone to regard Russian progress in the field of science as amusing. Reports of rigid political control of scientific thought have made Soviet scientists the object of ridicule. To a certain extent this American attitude is justified. A recent report in Newsweek magazine, however, makes clear that the Russians are not completely retarded in the sciences, that as a matter of fact they have made great progress along certain lines.

As might be expected the greatest progress has been made in fields which would contribute most to Soviet military strength. It is known that they have made and exploded both hydrogen and atomic devices and it may be that these devices are more efficient than we know them to be at present.

It would be wrong to overestimate Russia's ability and potential. But it would be

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THE COP ON THE BEAT

J. Edgar Hoover, year by year, calls attention to the increase of juvenile delinquency and his statements fall on dulled ears. Nobody does much about it, perhaps because this country is becoming accustomed to crime. In fact, crime has become a principal form of amusement.

Frank S. Hogan, District Attorney of New York County, apparently assumes that he will lessen this interest in crime by withholding news in advance of trials. Actually, he will succeed only in heightening interest in crime because suppression always whets the appetite. He picked a poor subject for a test of censorship, the murder of the Bodenheims, which, while gruesome, produced no sustaining excitement. To most, Max Bodenheim was just a funny-looking drunk and his alleged, if you please, murder a poor sap.

What with murder a daily fare on the air, the private-eye story being a substitute for the tireless soap opera and a means to avoid controversy, with many toys imitations of murderous weapons, with comics for children emphasizing murder, it is not surprising that crime is increasingly fashionable and that young boys strut their heroics before boy-crazy teen-agers as was done in other periods when the man who killed rode on a horse, while the man of peace was an object of ridicule.

Here in New York, we are going through a police revolution which may die on the vine as such things often do or which may bring about a startling change of attitude toward crime. We have a new Mayor who may prove a better-policed and a cleaner city or who may weary of the effort because of lack of interest among the citizens who usually like to complain but rarely support an effort to correct the things complained about. If given half a chance, this police revolution can do much to lessen crime in this big city and perhaps set an example for the country.

Robert A. Wagner, the new Mayor, is a difficult man to understand because his training has been in Tammany Hall. Before becoming Mayor, not too much was expected of him. In fact, it looked as though we were in for another Tammany regime, not as colorful as that of Jimmy Walker or Bill O'Dwyer, but more honest.

When it came to making appointments, however, Robert Wagner hit the city a wallop. He appointed a set of unusually competent men without regard to political affiliations. And as Police Commissioner, he appointed a complete outsider, Francis W. H. Adams, a man without police experience but who has studied police problems since the days when he was in the Department of Justice. He hates crime like a G-man.

Adams established it on the very first day that he went to work that he expected the police force to be a disciplined organization, responsible for the peace of the city and the suppression of crime. That meant putting the policeman back on the beat, a walking policeman who will know the storekeepers and the janitors and the children who play on the sidewalks. It means watching a kid grow into a fierce punk and stopping the process before a jail sentence becomes inevitable. It means getting wise to marijuana and heroin pushers and catching up with them before a murder is committed. It means a humane understanding of all the complex problems of a big city and catching them on the beat, which is where they express themselves first.

That is police work and good policemen like that kind of work. Those who do not like it should get themselves jobs elsewhere. Adams abolished the police band and glee club because the city is short of policemen and these men were hired for policing. If a band is needed for an occasion, it can be hired from Petrillo's union. Discipline and order within the force became the watchword and of course that started trouble, which the Mayor faced staunchly.

In many cities, motorization of the police force has made the police impersonal and remote from the citizens. A police officer cannot know children when he is in a prowl car. He cannot watch the recruiting criminal by a glance out of his left eye. The return of the cop to the beat can be the first great forward step in the battle to save our children from the forces of corruption.

AGING PROBLEM CONCERNS EVERYBODY

It is interesting to watch the processes of aging. Some individuals seem to sit around the home and put on excess weight, while others under the same circumstances actually lose weight.

In an editorial in the Journal of Clinical Nutrition by Dr. Cyril M. Macbride, we read that the processes of aging are intimately concerned with nutrition. Good nutrition slows and poor nutrition hurries the process of physiologic aging. Physiologists who watch the processes of aging state the above is true.

In starvation, actual aging processes in tissues become apparent. Undernourished or starved persons may rapidly assume the appearance of advancing years. Hair may thin and lose its color, the skin become wrinkled and inelastic, sexual functions wane, and body muscle and vital glands may develop microscopic and chemical changes—senile degeneration. If this starving process is prolonged—failure of nutrition from any cause whether from not eating enough food, failure to absorb all the nourishment from the food eaten, too much nourishing food passing away from the intestine—these are the usual signs that aging is taking place.

Much emphasis is at present being placed on the higher attributes of the body—the intellect. Equal emphasis should be directed to the evidence that optimum nutrition, but avoiding overweight, prolongs the life span.

The editorial states further that elderly persons suffer from undernutrition because of the frequency with which economical, psychological and organic problems naturally occur to them. In the older decades one must be on guard not to accept these changes as natural occurrences of old age. Often generation, growth and repair are still possible, often degeneration can be delayed—by improvement in nutrition.

"One of the greatest advances in modern medicine is the recognition that many changes, which previously were thought to be natural to old age, can really be prevented or postponed."

Gland factors probably will receive more attention in the future as they relate to nutrition and aging, particularly in regard to the thyroid and pituitary glands.

I believe that most individuals have not a great desire to live longer but they all want to keep healthy and strong. It is not so much the length of life that is so important but living out a full life with all the natural or normal faculties unimpaired.

"Nutrition and hormones, closely inter-related, may provide the means for man's further experiments with the benefits of a longer life span."

just as wrong, and perhaps more dangerous, to underestimate them. NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington (NEA)—The newest crusade which the Advertising Council is preparing to unleash on the U. S. public has for its theme the slogan, "Opportunity, Unlimited."

The idea, according to the Council's President Theodore S. Reppel of Washington, is to sell the pessimists on any belief that 1934 is going to be a year of depression. The contrary opinion is that 1934 will probably be the second best year the U. S. ever had.

By newspaper and magazine advertising, by radio and TV spot announcements, by billboards, by cards and every other medium of information that advertising has anything to do with, the idea will be plugged that the United States is still growing and there's nothing to be afraid of.

Depressions often start from psychological factors. If these worries can be overcome and the opportunity for further investment and expansion sold to American business and consumers, the threat of a recession can be rolled back by a rolling readjustment, in the belief of the advertising industry.

The original idea for this morale-building, education-through-advertising campaign is attributed to William C. McKeehan, Jr. of New York. He tried it out on some 200 business leaders assembled in Washington recently for the tenth annual meeting of the Ad Council Associates. They went for it.

So the idea was next submitted to the 60 Ad Council directors, meeting in New York, for formal approval. The plan is to have the campaign reach maximum intensity in the spring, when economists believe the economic downbeat will be felt the worst.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

March 6, 1934—The local school census showed a city population of 7,164 persons under 18 years old. The Common Council was informed that $207,000 had been expended here by the Federal Civil Works Administration since its inauguration.

An Interesting Experiment

It will be an interesting experiment to watch. It will be well worth noting whether the country can be psyched out of the blues of a business recession by a selling campaign. Or, to use a longer and more accurate name for it, domestic propaganda. For this is, after all, a beneficial application of the old trick of making people believe something by telling them, often and long enough, that it's so.

The success of the Advertising Council in nearly 100 public service campaigns over the past dozen years is proof enough that this is a good technique, and that it works.

The Ad Council meeting in New York on Feb. 18 was something of an anniversary. For it was on that date, 1942, that the organization was incorporated in New York as a non-profit service organization of business interests to support the war effort.

The first campaign which the Council was asked to undertake was the scrap-iron-collection drive. It went over big. From there it was a natural step to go into the U. S. savings bond sale promotion—a task which the council is still at.

Fat salvage, waste paper collection, recruitment of student nurses, WACs and skilled labor for the war industries were other campaigns put over by liberal use of donated advertising copy, space and time. Encouraging the home folks to use more V-air mail to get more letters to servicemen overseas was another campaign that paid off.

Sparked Plasma Campaign
Increasing the supply of plasma for war casualties through the Red Cross blood donor campaign was one of the most significant and most successful of the promotion efforts of the Ad Council in both World War 2 and the Korean war.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Enlarge School Is General Opinion at Parents' Meeting

Woodstock, March 5—Owing to a considerable amount of advance publicity, a large number of members of the Woodstock Parent-Teacher Association, as well as taxpayers in the township who were invited to attend the association's meeting Thursday night, expected there would be dissenting views expressed on the subject under discussion—overcrowding at the Woodstock School. In reply, however, to the three questions posed by Adolf Heckerth, chairman of the school board, the consensus as summed up by Walter Van Wagenen, school principal, was that more rooms should be added to the present school building. Heckerth had asked his listeners to voice their opinions on whether the school should let the out-of-district pupils go, whether the seventh and eighth grade pupils should be sent to a central school or whether the school should be enlarged to accommodate all under the present arrangement and the expected increase each year.

"Originally we built our school here," Heckerth stated, "and we were willing to pay the price as individuals. Will we pay the price tomorrow?"

Would Cost $11,500
The school, he noted, was built to take care of 200 pupils and according to the census for the school enrollment for 1954-55, 223 pupils are expected. Furthermore, if the non-resident pupils are eliminated, the problem is solved for one year only. If the seventh and eighth grades were sent outside, he said, the total cost, including transportation and tuition would be $11,500.

Putting the question directly to the taxpayers, Heckerth told his audience that they would be the ones to decide the issue of the building of four rooms, which would amount to a tax increase of $11.50 per thousand.

On the question of a home economics kitchen and workshop for the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades, Mrs. Rapp said that the amount of use by these grades of equipment did not warrant the expenditures involved.

The discussion closed with a resolution being passed that the members of the school board would go to the State Education Department in Albany to obtain further details on the aspects of the present situation. They will make a full report at an open meeting of the school board in April.

Speaks on School Health

An outline of what is being done for the health of the Woodstock School children was presented at the PTA meeting by Dr. Hans J. Cohn. At the beginning of the school year, he said, a thorough examination is given to each child and the results tabulated on cards for future reference. Defects discovered and acute conditions needing treatment are reported immediately.

Dr. Cohn observed that in the 20 years since he began examining children in the schools, he has noted a vast improvement in health and in the condition of teeth. There is also yearly check-ups and examinations made by a dental hygienist and hearing tests are also given once a year.

Under a program, Mrs. Jerry Jermolinsk will examine the hair of each child periodically. Miss Anne Cassidy, public health nurse will come to the school once a week to assist teachers in solving health and mental hygiene problems.

"All of us," Dr. Cohn urged, "should feel that everything is being done for our children."

Enlarging on the persistent nature of the "Johnnies" cold, Dr. Cohn explained that the Health Department in general feels that people should keep their children home for the first two days of a cold. "Basically it is impossible to keep colds out of school because of the many elements involved." He drew a graphic and amusing picture of the various attitudes assumed by mothers in determining the nature of "Johnnies" cold. "As long as there are children going to school," he added, "there will be colds."

He touched upon the "regrettable panic" caused here last October because of two cases of polio in the village. He asked his audience to remember that "polio is a virus disease and that for any case of paralytic polio discovered, there are 1,000 other cases running about, according to statistics, spreading the same virus around." Nothing would be gained, he concluded, by closing the schools, for it would also be necessary to close all stores, theatres, and other public places.

P-TA Officers Elected

The following officers to serve next year were elected: Thomas Denny, president; Donald Twine, vice president; Mrs. William Stiller, secretary; Mrs. Inger Walker, treasurer.

A letter from Mrs. Anthony DeLisio, president of the P-TA, was read, submitting her resignation for the office, due to an extended stay in Florida. A new president, to serve for the remainder of the year, will be elected at the April meeting.

Mrs. Edward Gurland, vice president, presided at the meeting in the absence of Mrs. DeLisio, and the secretary and treasurer's reports were given.

Joseph Gandino, teacher at the school reported on the uses of the public address system, the gift to the school from the P-TA. He said that it had been piped into six rooms and the gym, and that three more rooms may be added if needed. The master control is now also complete. Among the purposes for which it has been used are notices to the student body, messages relayed to students from home, calling of faculty members or students to the office, music programs especially on holidays, news programs and other special events. It is also possible for Mr. Van Wagenen to listen to classroom activities.

SHOOTING IN CONGRESS

It was a long moment, on the House floor, before many congressmen realized that the Puerto Rican bullets were real and that it "could happen here."

The lawmakers were stunned because up to now this country's governing processes have always been free of acts of violence. Our political dialogue may grow harsh and bitter, but somehow it has managed to stop short of the catcall, a derisive taunt and the fist fight which often marks legislative debate in such parliaments as Italy's.

The action of a handful of Puerto Rican fanatics can do nothing to advance the cause in which the bullets were allegedly fired—indeed, but perhaps this astonishing event can serve a purpose for us.

It can remind us that our public figures and our democratic processes enjoy no comfortable immunity from the violence that frequently afflicts other nations. It can remind us to keep our national argument temperate, lest a pressing toward rigid extremes produce violence on issues far greater than Puerto Rico's future.

By this we do not mean to belittle the cause of Puerto Rican independence. But, in truth, that was not at stake in the shocking incident in the House. President Eisenhower has offered the island its independence, yet the Puerto Rican legislature has turned it down.

More than four fifths of the island's people prefer to continue, at least for a while, Puerto Rico's present status as a self-governing commonwealth under U. S. tutelage. As leading islanders make clear, their present need is not more freedom but more jobs to lift them to improved economic status.

There seems to be evidence that the fanatical attack on Congress was Communist-inspired, with the aim of embarrassing American diplomats meeting in Latin American conference at Caracas.

But the real story of U. S. generosity toward Puerto Rico's political and economic goals is too well known for such a transparent, though potentially tragic tactic to fool anyone.

BETTER TRAFFIC SIGNS

Motorists in Logan, Utah, find no signs reading "stop" when they enter a main thoroughfare from a side street. Instead the signs say "Yield the Right of Way." This permits them to keep going at the intersection if there is no traffic to impede. The reports, according to the American Municipal Association, are that the new signs are followed better than the old, and there have been but two accidents.

No standard wording has ever been found for traffic signs. Local usage varies too much to make this look possible to individual towns. However, the tendency to uniformity is growing. Boston now tells the driver to "Stop" or "Go." Once, the story is, that in accordance with Boston's reputation for learning, the signs read "Cease" and "Proceed."

Even in the matter of traffic signs we do make progress.

Drive carefully in bad weather and you will have a better chance of being around until it changes for the better.

A LOOK AT RUSSIA

At times Americans are prone to regard Russian progress in the field of science as amusing. Reports of rigid political control of scientific thought have made Soviet scientists the object of ridicule. To a certain extent this American attitude is justified. A recent report in Newsweek magazine, however, makes clear that the Russians are not completely retarded in the sciences, that as a matter of fact they have made great progress along certain lines.

As might be expected the greatest progress has been made in fields which would contribute most to Soviet military strength. It is known that they have made and exploded both hydrogen and atomic devices and it may be that these devices are more efficient than we know them to be at present.

It would be wrong to overestimate Russia's ability and potential. But it would be

J. Edgar Hoover, year by year, calls attention to the increase of juvenile delinquency and his statements fall on dulled ears. Nobody does much about it, perhaps because this country is becoming accustomed to crime. In fact, crime has become a principal form of amusement.

Frank S. Hogan, District Attorney of New York County, apparently assumes that he will lessen this interest in crime by withholding news in advance of trials. Actually, he will succeed only in heightening interest in crime because suppression always whets the appetite. He picked a poor subject for a test of censorship, the murder of the Bodenheims, which, while gruesome, produced no sustaining excitement. To most, Max Bodenheim was just a funny-looking drunk and his alleged, if you please, murderer a poor sap.

The idea, according to the Council's President Theodore S. Reppel of Washington, is to unseat the pessimists on any belief that 1954 is going to be a year of depression. The contrary opinion is that 1954 will probably be the second best year the U. S. ever had.

By newspaper and magazine advertising, by radio and TV spot announcements, by billboards, cards and every other medium of information that advertising has anything to do with, the idea will be plugged that the United States is still growing and there's nothing to be afraid of.

Depressions often start from psychological factors. If these worries can be overcome and the opportunity for further investment and expansion sold to American business and consumers, the threat of a recession can be rolled back by a rolling readjustment, in the belief of the advertising industry.

The original idea for this morale-building, education-through-advertising campaign is attributed to William C. McKeehan, Jr. of New York. He tried it out on some 200 business leaders assembled in Washington recently for the tenth annual meeting of the Ad Council Associates. They went for it.

So the idea was next submitted to the 60 Ad Council directors, meeting in New York, for formal approval. The plan is to have the campaign reach maximum intensity in the spring, when economists believe the economic down beat will be felt the worst.

Frank F. Kolts, of 75 Foxhall avenue, was appointed Third Ward alderman to fill a vacancy caused when John J. Schwenk became alderman-at-large.

George Chambers, who had been employed by W. N. Conner for 29 years, died.

March 6, 1944—District Game Protector Frederick G. DeWitt reported that 11 game protectors in the Kingston district were in the services.

Attorney Harry Gold opened his own law office at 271 Fair street. The Marine Corps Women's Reserve was scheduled to start recruiting here.

An Interesting Experiment

It will be an interesting experiment to watch. It will be well worth noting whether the country can be psyched out of the blues of a business recession by a selling campaign. Or, to use a longer and blunter name for it, by domestic propaganda. For this is, after all, a beneficial application of the old trick of making people believe something by telling them, often and long enough, that it's so.

The success of the Advertising Council in nearly 100 public service campaigns over the past dozen years is proof enough that this is a good technique, and that it works.

The Ad Council meeting in New York on Feb. 18 was something of an anniversary. For it was on that date, 1942, that the organization was incorporated in New York as a non-profit service organization of business interests to support the war effort.

The first campaign which the Council was asked to undertake was the scrap-iron-collection drive. It went over big. From there it was a natural step to go into the U. S. savings bond sale promotion—a task which the council is still at.

Fat salvage, waste paper collection, recruitment of student nurses, WACs and skilled labor for the war industries were other campaigns put over by liberal use of donated advertising copy, space and time. Encouraging the home folks to use more V-air mail to get more letters to servicemen overseas was another campaign that paid off.

Increasing the supply of plasma for war casualties through the Red Cross blood donor campaign was one of the most significant and most successful of the promotion efforts of the Ad Council in both World War 2 and the Korean war.

Among the peacetime crusades which the Ad Council has run are these: Promotion of the Freedom Train which toured the country to show historical documents. A Better Schools campaign put on with the cooperation of the Parent-Teacher Assn. Highway Safety, promoted with the National Safety Council, Civil Defense protection. The sending of CARE packages for foreign relief.

Promotion of the Red Cross enrollment, Community Chest collections, forest fire prevention, safety first, United Nations Day and savings bond sales are the hardy perennials. The Council has one notable flop to its credit. This was the effort to promote foreign trade.

The great merit of the Ad Council is that it doesn't cost the government or the taxpayers a cent. Several hundred big business advertisers, agencies and media donate from $500 to $15,000 annually to support the Council, then donate $100 million worth of their space and time for its public service messages.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Enlarge School Is General Opinion at Parents' Meeting

Woodstock, March 5—Owing to a considerable amount of advance publicity, a large number of members of the Woodstock Parent-Teacher Association, as well as taxpayers in the township who were invited to attend the association's meeting Thursday night, expected there would be dissenting views expressed on the subject under discussion—overcrowding at the Woodstock School. In reply, however, to the three questions posed by Adolf Heckerth, chairman of the school board, the consensus as summed up by Walter Van Wagenen, school principal, was that more rooms should be added to the present school building. Heckerth had asked his listeners to voice their opinions on whether the school should let the out-of-district pupils go, whether the seventh and eighth grade pupils should be sent to a central school or whether the school should be enlarged to accommodate all under the present arrangement and the expected increase each year.

"Originally we built our school here," Heckerth stated, "and we were willing to pay the price as individuals. Will we pay the price tomorrow?"

Would Cost $11,500

The school, he noted, was built to take care of 200 pupils and according to the census for the school enrollment for 1954-55, 223 pupils are expected. Furthermore, if the non-resident pupils are eliminated, the problem is solved for one year only. If the seventh and eighth grades were sent outside, he said, the total cost, including transportation and tuition would be $11,500.

Putting the question directly to the taxpayers, Heckerth told his audience that they would be the ones to decide the issue of the building of four rooms, which would amount to a tax increase of $11.50 per thousand.

On the question of a home economics room and a workshop for the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades, Mrs. Rapp said that the amount of use by these grades of equipment did not warrant the expenditures involved.

The discussion closed with a resolution being passed that the members of the school board would go to the State Education Department in Albany to obtain further details on the aspects of the present situation. They will make a full report at an open meeting of the school board in April.

Speaks on School Health

An outline of what is being done for the health of the Woodstock School children was presented at the PTA meeting by Dr. Hans J. Cohn. At the beginning of the school year, he said, a thorough examination is given to each child and the results tabulated on cards for future reference. Defects discovered and acute conditions needing treatment are reported immediately.

Dr. Cohn observed that in the 20 years since he began examining children in the schools, he has noted a vast improvement in health and in the condition of teeth. There is also yearly check-ups and examinations made by a dental hygienist and hearing tests are also given once a year.

Under a new program, Mrs. Jerry Jermoluk will examine the health of each child periodically. Miss Anne Cassidy, public health nurse will come to the school once a week to assist teachers in solving health and mental hygiene problems.

"All of us," Dr. Cohn urged, "should feel that everything is being done for our children."

Enlarging the school, Dr. Cohn explained, in general feels that people should keep their children home for the first two days of a cold. "Basically it is impossible to keep colds out of school because of the many elements involved."

He drew a graphic and amusing picture of the various attitudes assumed by the children in determining the future of "Johnnie's" cold. "As long as there are children going to school," he added, "there will be colds."

He touched upon the "regrettable" panic caused here last October because of two cases of polio in the village. He asked his audience to remember that "polio is a virus disease and that for any case of paralytic polio discovered, there are 1,000 other cases running about, according to statistics, spreading the same virus around."

Nothing would be gained, he concluded, by closing the schools, for it would also be necessary to close all stores, theatres, and other public places.

French Contributions To American Customs Listed by Speaker

"Millions of immigrants have made their way across the Atlantic to seek adventure, to escape poverty and unhappiness and to find prosperity and opportunity in the new America," said Miss Lillian Nelson, lecturing on the subject, The French and Their Civilization in America. At the meeting of Atharacton Club Wednesday, Miss Nelson continued: "As a whole, the American people offered a generous welcome to those who wanted to throw in their lot with them."

New York, Huguenot stock was represented as early as the Dutch occupation. Peter Stuyvesant had a Huguenot wife, and the language of general conversation was French. During and after the Revolution, a swarm of French military men and nobility came to America, and with them the French dancing master, hairdresser, French mirrors, French styles, and French balls, cotillions, quadrilles and French games.

They also brought in the French art of cooking which has always held high rank with American gourmets and deservedly so. It is in the fields of manners, fashions and cooking that the French have exercised their greatest influence on American culture. This influence was apparent as early as 1800. New Orleans, always an Old World city, had French opera before the end of the 18th century.

Another French addition to the American population are the French Canadians from Quebec. They represent a French influence quite different, for they are the descendants of the French of Colonial days who have preserved in Canada a civilization which is a strange mixture of the language and customs of the days of Louis XIV. Miss Nelson concluded.

Preceding the meeting, at Miss Nelson's home, tea was served by the hostess with Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell pouring.

Hobby Y'se: No. 4 in Series: Bronze Stenciling

Mrs. John Ford, who will be a student in the class in bronze stenciling at the YWCA to be taught by Mrs. Clement Angstrom, displays some of the finished work by the instructor. (Freeman photo.)

By MARIANNE DAVIS (Freeman Society Editor)

"With bronze stenciling, you can make antiques out of dime store items," Mrs. John Ford exclaimed as she examined the attractive array of stenciled articles by Mrs. Clement Angstrom.

In fact, she had to examine each piece minutely and even quiz the artist to separate the antique from the contemporary.

The bronze stenciling process, which Mrs. Angstrom of 163 Hurley avenue, will teach to a class at the YWCA after Easter, is a popular one, and has reached a peak of interest in the past few years, going back many, many years, stenciling designs were discovered in Buddhist temples, were very popular in France, and eventually found their way to these shores with stenciled walls quite the vogue in early America.

Household items are "glamorized" nowadays, bronze-worked trays are a favorite among up-to-date housekeepers, with a functional as well as a decorative value. Robert Blanchard's book on the subject states, "The word stencil is derived from the old French, estenciller meaning to sparkle, to powder with stars, an old term in heraldry. It is easily understood to anyone who has worked with the gold, silver, copper and the less well-known sapphires, red and green bronze powder that this is indeed as descriptive a background as possible."

Mrs. Ford of 187 Clinton avenue, who has studied art at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, will be in Mrs. Angstrom's class, for her first attempt at bronze stenciling. She looked at the various items, which are displayed in the picture, to get an idea of what to work with when class begins.

An antique tea chest, which Mrs. Angstrom covered with an original design and a border taken from one on a Christmas card, is one of the items. Typewriter ribbon boxes antiqued with the metallic powder; a chicken-feeder bought at Everett and Treadwell's, eventually to place potted plants in so that the water won't drip over furniture; cream can; berry pail; large sugar scoop; a wooden cutlery box and a match box, were among some of the items.

Drill and French canisters, quills and French canisters. They also brought in the French art of cooking which has always held high rank with American gourmets and deservedly so. It is in the fields of manners, fashions and cooking that the French have exercised their greatest influence on American culture. This influence was apparent as early as 1800. New Orleans, always an Old World city, had French opera before the end of the 18th century.

Another French addition to the American population are the French Canadians from Quebec. They represent a French influence quite different, for they are the descendants of the French of Colonial days who have preserved in Canada a civilization which is a strange mixture of the language and customs of the days of Louis XIV. Miss Nelson concluded.

Preceding the meeting, at Miss Nelson's home, tea was served by the hostess with Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell pouring.

Designing Patterns Vivacious Mrs. Angstrom claims there's no end to the number of household standbys from 19 cent trays to candlesticks that can be used. She has in mind to work on a dustpan, to be used upside down as a wall-planter, "sometime soon."

Her favorite piece to date, shown in the picture, is an antique oval tray, a reproduction of a Queen Anne tray, covered with an original design. She's also searching for Lux liquid detergent cans (empty of course) "for an experiment project in stenciling."

With the ability to cut out patterns for her work even while watching TV, Mrs. Angstrom finds this the most fascinating part of the entire process. It all begins with finding a piece that might look attractive with a pattern on it, leaving the choice entirely up to the individual, with a wide, wide field. Scraping and cleaning old paint is next, then applying a primer, and a flat black enamel which will dry to a dull finish.

"Stardust" For Trays The stencil may be copied from patterns in books, although Mrs. Angstrom designs all of her own. These are cut out of architect's linen, and applied on a thin coat of varnish when it is tacky or sticky, on the piece.

Either a silk-backed hemmed velvet or chamois square is used to dip into the many-colored powders. This is applied with a circular motion from the outside of the stencil. Shading of the calligraphic articles in the picture, comes only with long, long practice.

After the piece has stood for 24 hours, the excess powder is washed off. Any errors in the process may be corrected by using

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST (Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

LEAVING NAME

A reader asks: "When calling someone on the telephone and that person is not at home, is it rude not to give your name when asked by the person answering the telephone, 'Who is calling?'"

The other day I called a friend and, after being told she was not at home, was asked this question. I said I would call again and did not leave my name. I understand that I am now being thought of as very rude for not leaving my name. I would like to know if I was wrong."

Usually when one neighbor calls another, she (or he) leaves her (or his) name. But many times it is best not to leave it. If a girl calls a young man, or if a householder calls a friend staying in a hotel, or if the caller is not going to be available for some time, it certainly is best for the caller to say that he (or she) will call again later.

The Bride Forgot Dear Mrs. Post: A short time ago my husband's niece was married and we sent her a substantial check with a card enclosed saying it was from both of us. According to the card, she was completely ignored me. Am I wrong in feeling hurt over this? My husband thinks it was only natural for his niece to write to him, her uncle, and that I am just too sensitive for my own good.

Answer: Considering the fact that both of your names were sent with the check, I can very well understand your feelings. But, at the same time, I doubt that she meant to leave you out of her letter, and that she even realized that she did.

Must They Receive? Dear Mrs. Post: We are celebrating our wedding anniversary and I'd like to know if you think we should have someone assigned to the front door so my husband and I can be free to mingle with the guests? Do you think we should stand the entire time at some place to receive people?

Answer: Unless the reception is very large and it is necessary that you "receive" in order to enable your guests to find you, you and your husband may perfectly well be free to move about among your guests. As new ones arrive, they will find you wherever you may be.

"Is it wrong for a girl to telephone a boy at his house?" This is one of the questions answered in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-11, a quiz in manners for boys and girls of high school age. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

cleaner, turpentine or lighter fluid, reapplying the powder and touching up with a flat black paint. A last coat of satin varnish is applied for a dull finish to the work. Mrs. Angstrom cautions that if a piece is to be used a great deal such as chair, tray or footstool, more overcoats of varnish should be applied.

Begins in April Mrs. Angstrom uses a design only once as she likes variety in her hobby, which began several years ago when she studied the art with Mrs. Alice Cross. At present, she exhibits her work in hobby shows, and donates pieces to the St. John's Church annual bazaar.

Active in scouting, she's advisor to Cub Scouts in School No. 7, Den 13. Mrs. Angstrom finds bronze-stenciling a relaxing and worthwhile hobby. The stunning array of gift-possibilities or decorations for a person's own home, which Mrs. Ford is admiring in the photograph, are reason enough to switch from dress patterns and furniture dusting, to stencil patterns and bronze-powder dusting when class begins in April.

Origins of English Words Are Given By Mrs. Roy Wulff

Mrs. Roy Wulff, guest speaker at the meeting of Witwylk Chapter of DAR Thursday afternoon, told of the derivation and meaning of words which had their origin from the Dutch. In her talk entitled, Believe It or Not, Mrs. Wulff said that the word Yankee, surprisingly enough, came from the Dutch.

Mrs. Wulff said that the words were our hidden heritage, given by the Dutch settlers and she proceeded to list many others, such as coleslaw from Koolsla. The Dutch watched the Indians use starch from the rootstock of the plant to take poison out of the wounds that had been inflicted by arrows, thus the plant became known as arrowroot.

Score was another word, although it is often connected with the British. Actually, the Dutch taught the English how to make them, and the English went home taking the recipe and the name with them.

The word "cocktail" had its origins right here in the Hudson valley, said Mrs. Wulff, and to all sports fans, golf is originally a Dutch word, derived from the word, Kolf, concluded Mrs. Wulff.

Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, music chairman, introduced Miss Margaret Danford, contralto soloist, who was accompanied by Cameron Rylance. She gave three selections: Verdi's "Pratello"; H. H. A. Beach, "Not a Day by Myself"; and "Banjo Song" by Sidney Homer.

The business meeting was presided over by the Regent, Mrs. William Ochs. Seven new members received, and those present were initiated by Mrs. Ochs.

These included the Misses Doris and Dorothy Friedman and Ruth Trowbridge, the Misses Cloyd Leslie Elias, Walter Huntington Smith, Frederick B. Thomson and Ernest E. Whitney.

Two Gunmen Get $916 In Bronx Butcher Shop

New York, March 6.—Two gunmen held up a grocery and butcher shop at 878 East 241st street, the Bronx, last night, herded the owner and two clerks into a washroom and fled with $916 in cash.

The robbery started with the entrance of a husky man of about 26 who ordered a half-pound of sliced ham. The thug's confederate entered while the proprietor, Joseph Meloni, was slicing the meat. The second man then announced: "You can stop slicing the ham, this is a stickup."

Meloni and the two clerks looked up to see the newcomer about 28, waving a revolver and the first holdup man pulling out another weapon.

The gunmen took $466 from the cash register, forced all three of the men to a rear room, relieved Meloni of $450 he had on his person and fled.

Complete Sex Change

London, March 6.—Hormone treatments and three years of plastic surgery are reported by the Press Association to have transformed a British World War 2 fighter pilot into a woman in what "may well be the most complete change of sex in the world's medical history."

The British news agency said last night it has documents to prove Bob Cowell, 35, a former Royal Air Force lieutenant and father of two children, is now a female. Its account, the source of which was not given, said Cowell—divorced by his wife in 1952 on a charge of desertion—has been living "somewhere on the continent" where Roberts Elizabeth Relatives were reported caring for their daughters, 10 and 12.

Thief Sentenced

Boston, March 6.—Federal Judge Charles E. Wydzanski, Jr., castigated a convicted thief yesterday for jeopardizing national defense and threatening demoralization of government procurement by stealing army field jackets. Judge Wydzanski sentenced William Witten, sometimes known as White Plains, N. Y., to 18 months in a penitentiary. Witten was convicted by a jury Feb. 16 of stealing $10,000 worth of field jackets and cloth intended to be made into jackets. The thefts occurred in 1951 while Witten was treasurer of a Boston clothing manufacturing firm working on an army quartermaster contract for 62,000 jackets.

Choose to Talk Love

Son Gets 25 Years To Life for Dad's Death

Minola, March 6.—A 25 years to life prison sentence has been meted out to Charles Starkins, 24, for the second degree murder of his father.

Nassau County Judge Cyril J. Brown sentenced Starkins yesterday. The count carries a minimum sentence of 20 years.

Charles Starkins, a retired New York city policeman, was shot to death in the family's home at Valley Stream, N. Y., on Jan. 23, 1953. The body remained in the basement nine days before the crime was detected. The two allegedly had argued over what the father called his son's inability to hold a job.

Charles Starkins, 20-year-old wife, Eileen, was acquitted of the same charge when the trial jury returned its verdicts Feb. 16. The couple's second child was born to her while she was in prison awaiting trial.

Motion Denied

New York, March 6.—On condition that a speedy trial be held, Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer denied yesterday a motion for a temporary injunction brought by the Sperry Gyroscope Company to bar striking members of the Engineers' Association from interfering with the operation of the company's Lake Success plant. In its motion and an accompanying suit for $100,000 damages, the corporation said that about 2,200 engineers, draftsmen and others were represented by the independent union.

They Meet Coroner

Canaan, N. Y., March 6.—Each time deputy sheriffs stopped a speeding driver during a recent traffic check, a soft-spoken gent walked up to the offender and the dialogue went something like this: "Have you ever met one of the coroners of Columbia county?"

"No." "Well, let me introduce myself. I'm Barson Johnson, county coroner, and the next time you come through this intersection speeding I'll be seeing you in an official capacity—but you won't be seeing me."

Child Health Clinic

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Health Center in Woodstock March 17 from 2 to 4 p. m. These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

On call to return for further questioning is Peter A. Gragis of Levittown, N. Y., an admitted former Communist who swore yesterday he belonged to a cell of Reds at the big laboratory in the 1940's but that he had no knowledge of any espionage there.

Gragis named Frank McGee, a former member of the laboratory's engineering staff, as a former teacher of Communist doctrine to cell members. McGee refused under oath to say whether he is or was a Communist, but he declared repeatedly he never spied or committed sabotage.

Haas Holds Slim Edge

Houston, March 6 (AP)—Freddie Haas may have to protect his slender lead in the $30,000 Houston Open just the way he won it—in the rain. The tall New Orleans golfer edged into a one-stroke lead over Jim Turnesa yesterday by splashing through a steady rain for a 71 that gave him a 36-hole 138. Except for a few early starters, practically everyone had trouble with the soggy fairways and greens on the 7,200-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course. More cold rain is in today's forecast.

May Present Resolution

Caracas, Venezuela, March 6 (AP)—The United States may present Monday its long awaited resolution concerning communism in the Western Hemisphere. Delegates to the 10th Inter-American Conference wondered today whether it will try to pin a Red label on Guatemala. An undercover feud blazed into the open yesterday between U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and Guatemala's fiery young foreign minister, Guillermo Toriello. The plenary session scheduled today was canceled. There was no explanation, but it seemed likely the conference leaders wanted time for tempers to cool. Toriello made a dramatic attack on the United States in a speech before the conference, saying his leftist, Central American nation was battling a big stick and dollar diplomacy employed by "the forces of international reaction."

Spring Rally . . .

again. Thereafter came the first of several severe drops that added up to the end of that phase of the bull market in stocks.

This week the market on Monday continued the advance that developed late in the previous week. Many individual stocks were strong in the midst of forecasts that the worst of the consolidation period was past.

Tuesday's market continued ahead but with some irregularity developing along the way. That irregularity came to a head on Wednesday with the market down on average but with more gainers than losers in the list.

Thursday's market swung ahead again with railroads and oils in the lead, and that strength continued through Friday.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Elaborate Plans Made by Scouts

Saugerties, March 6—The Saugerties District Scouters at their regular meeting Thursday night at the meeting rooms of Atonement Lutheran Church made known an elaborate program for the Scouts of this area.

During the commissioners' and leaders' round-table discussion plans were proposed to conduct a District Court of Honor on Wednesday, April 28. The Scouters will try to arrange for the municipal auditorium for this impressive event. Preliminary plans also were discussed for a Saugerties District Camporee which will be held May 7, 8, and 9 at the Plimley property at Zena. William Plimley, district commissioner, who presided at the round-table, said that this camporee would prepare the boys for the Kingston Council Camporee which is scheduled for June 4, 5 and 6 at Camp Tri-Mount. Plimley set a date for a special meeting of commissioners, leaders and committeemen to formulate plans for the coming events. The first meeting is scheduled for Thursday at the commissioner's home on Clermont street.

Banquet May 5

District Chairman John Wood presided after completion of round-table sessions. Distribution of tickets for the scouters' annual banquet was made at that time. The banquet is scheduled for Thursday, May 5, at 6:30 p. m. at the West Camp parish hall.

George V. Dennis, scout executive from the Rip Van Winkle

Council office in Kingston, presented commentary on a camp promotional film strip entitled, "Year-Round Camping Troop."

Gordon Craig, Jr., lodge adviser for the Order of the Arrow and a member of the Kingston District from Port Even, was then introduced. Craig described this honor society within the scouting organization and said, "It is one of the highest honors a boy can achieve." He further said that The Order of the Arrow was originated in 1915 and its members are the "Best of the Best." Boys in order to be eligible must be at least two years campers and have to be voted into the order by the boys of his own troop. Voting is conducted once each year at Camp Tri-Mount.

There are only three boys from the Saugerties District in the order at the present time. They include Charles Brackett and Lawrence Hunter of Troop 32 and John Lasher, Jr., who is registered with Explorer Post 130.

Reports on Activities

Frank Teel, scout field executive, reported on the various activities scheduled for the scouters in the coming months. Saturday, July 10, between 2 and 3 p. m. a program will be presented at Camp Tri-Mount in observance of Cub Day. A work party is scheduled for May 15 at Camp Tri-Mount to which all scouters are asked to join in the various jobs that must be done in preparation for the influx of boys to summer camp.

A preliminary discussion was held as to a scouters program to assist the VFW Blood Bank in their campaign to secure more donors. A suggestion was made that scouts and explorers be recruited to distribute application cards door to door to canvass for new donors. Chairman Wood took the responsibility of contacting the Blood Bank committee for their approval of the offer of assistance.

Further activities scheduled were the Explorer Program trip to Mystic Sea Museum May 22 and 23. On April 8 and 8 Robert Sproul, assistant to the national volunteer training director, will conduct a training program to train leaders for leadership training.

A new basic scoutmaster's training course was announced and will be held at the Cairo Central School between 8 and 9 p. m. starting Monday nights, March 8, 15, 22, 29, April 5 and 12 plus a training weekend at Camp Tri-Mount on the weekend of April 3 and 4.

A nominating committee consisting of Jack Noble, William Ormandy, and William Plimley was appointed to set up a slate for the coming district election on April 1.

The next Saugerties District meeting is scheduled for Thursday, April 1 at 7:45 p. m. in the Centerville Fire Hall.

Cub Pack Completes Reorganization Move

Saugerties, March 6—The final reorganization meeting for Cub Pack 36 of St. Mary's was held Thursday night at which time plans were completed for the pack's active participation in the scouting program.

Dens were organized and allocated to the various den mothers who will supervise the activities of the units. The mothers are Mrs. Vernon Benjamin, Den 1; Mrs. Robert DuVernoy, Den 2; Mrs. George Kerbert, Den 3; Mrs. William Reilly, Den 4; and Mrs. William Thornton, Den 5. Many boys have been recruited into the various dens but there are still openings. Jack Noble, chairman of organization and extension for the Saugerties Scout District asked all those who have boys aged 7 to 10 and would like them to become a Cub Scout to contact him or the Cubmaster Olaf Andreassen. Noble also said that some applications have not been submitted to him for registration.

The organizational officers also include the Rev. Matthew F. Mulloy, assistant pastor of St. Mary's who will serve as institutional representative; William Reilly, Den Dad; and committeemen Reilly, Edward Flannigan and Larry Spatz who also serves as Neighborhood Commissioner.

William Ormandy, cubmaster of Pack 130 served during these sessions as parent training chairman. Mrs. Ormandy, den mother in Pack 130, also assisted in the training sessions.

When the meeting adjourned for the evening, the group joined the Saugerties District Scouters meeting at Atonement Lutheran Church hall. The group of the new organization was then introduced to the meeting.

May Present Resolution

Caracas, Venezuela, March 6 (AP)—The United States may present Monday its long awaited resolution concerning communism in the Western Hemisphere. Delegates to the 10th Inter-American Conference wondered today whether it will try to pin a Red label on Guatemala. An undercover feud blazed into the open yesterday between U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and Guatemala's fiery young foreign minister, Guillermo Toriello. The plenary session scheduled today was canceled. There was no explanation, but it seemed likely the conference leaders wanted time for tempers to cool. Toriello made a dramatic attack on the United States in a speech before the conference, saying his leftist, Central American nation was battling a big stick and dollar diplomacy employed by "the forces of international reaction."

Rebels Driven Off

Hanoi, Indochina, March 6 (AP)—French Union troops drove Vietnamese forces from a strong hill position near Dien Bien Phu today in one of the heaviest clashes since the rebels started their siege of the fortress 108 days ago. French army spokesmen announced the Communist-led defenders suffered heavy casualties in more than an hour of fighting, while "some losses" were recorded among the French Union troops.

again. Thereafter came the first of several severe drops that added up to the end of that phase of the bull market in stocks.

This week the market on Monday continued the advance that developed late in the previous week. Many individual stocks were strong in the midst of forecasts that the worst of the consolidation period was past.

Tuesday's market continued ahead but with some irregularity developing along the way. That irregularity came to a head on Wednesday with the market down on average but with more gainers than losers in the list.

Thursday's market swung ahead again with railroads and oils in the lead, and that strength continued through Friday.

The five most active issues on the New York Stock Exchange this week were: Southern Pacific up 5% at 45% on 172,000 shares; Consolidated Vultee up 1% at 22%; Curtiss-Wright up 3% at 9%; Westinghouse Electric up 5% at 61%; and Radio Corp. up 1% at 26%.

The five most active issues on the American Stock Exchange this week were: Coastal oils up 3% at 3%; Muniz TV off 13% at 9.16; Panoastal up 2% at 2; Colonial Airlines off 3% at 12%; and Burma Mines unchanged at 3%.
